Subject: RE: Yosemite -- PG&E

Thank you Rachael. I just skimmed over the records and noticed that the 2008 response to the GNL did not discuss or identify any waste that PG&E sent to the Bay Area Drum Site. It simply stated that it cashed out its potential liability with the BAD PRP Group and that the group had agreed to indemnify it. If you look at the other documents, there is an overwhelming number of references to post 1999 disposal of PCB-laden waste oil from the PG&E facilities near Yosemite Creek, but no reference to any pre-1999 disposals. Moreover, there is no reference to the drums that were sent to Bay Area Drum for recycling. Please advise if EPA has any other records or responses from PG&E, or if it intends to conduct any further investigation of that business. Thank you.

Kind regards,
Mark

Mark:

I am attaching the 104e records and PG&E's response to the General Notice Letter. Please let me know if there is something else you are looking for.

I look forward to speaking with you on December 4.

Regards,
Rachel

Mark:

I got your message. Sorry about the confusion with my email address. I changed my name in February and EPA is just now updating my email address. It has caused a lot of confusion.

Yosemite Slough has been transferred to new EPA counsel: Rachel Tennis. Her number is 415-972-3746. I will continue to participate in Site meetings and discussions but Rachel will be the lead counsel.

I forwarded your voicemail to Rachel and Abhik Dutta, the investigator. I am unsure what the status is on your request regarding the PG&E information. To make sure we understand what you want, you are asking for our records obtained through 104e from PG&E, correct? Or was your request broader?
